

BFrame Press Release

April 30, 2010

BFrame signs Rosenthal, Stein & Associates, LLC

Duluth, GA – BFrame Data Systems Inc., a key solution provider in the collection and recovery software marketplace, has signed a comprehensive hosted services agreement with Rosenthal, Stein & Associates, LLC to implement the BFrame collection and recovery management hosted system.

BFrame’s hosted version of its popular Recovery Management System provides all of the power and flexibility of the client-deployed system currently in use in some call center environments with hundreds of collection and recovery agents on line, said Charlie Bowden, BFrame vice president for sales. “As a hosted solution from the BFrame data center, a client can now be implemented and running more quickly, and take advantage of our technical resources rather than using their own in-house or contract resources,” he said.

Rosenthal, Stein & Associates, LLC is a national debt collection agency based in Atlanta, Georgia.

About BFrame Data Systems Inc.: Bframe was founded in 1991 to provide consulting and software conversions moving client systems from mainframe to PC server platforms. Today, the BFrame Recovery Management System provides a field tested and proven solution for agencies, credit grantors and debt buyers. Its feature-rich browser interface provides a powerful, flexible and user-friendly front-end to an industrial strength debt collection and recovery management system. System modules include collections, recovery, agency management, buy/sell management and SQL query tools. The Account Manager module enables the user to automate the account workflow. More than 1,200 collection and recovery agents use the BFrame system in daily collection operations, with approximately 20 million accounts processed each day. For more detailed information, or to request a personalized product demonstration, visit the BFrame web site at www.bframe.com, or email sales@bframe.com.